

THE APPEAL.

A Blister in the Brain.
From the editor of the Appeal.

At the entrance of the hall, we stood two or three slaves, ready to receive us. Each lady who entered, one of these held a beautiful white handkerchief over her head; from which she would sweep off all the other powdered ornaments over her hair. Two little slave girls, prettier than life itself, the sala embowered in the shade of the trees, were seated on the floor. The dining-room was a most luxurious apartment, closely latticed, for the sun beat unmercifully upon the WEDNESDAY IN TEXAS.—Received in the counters, 87 per month; in stores, in the Peppermint Department, from $1.00 to $1.50.
